Family of sled crash student launch appeal

Tribute website set up to take donations for The Brain and Spine Foundation

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THE family of a student who was killed in an Austrian sledging accident have launched a fundraising appeal in her memory.

As an inquest opened yesterday into the death of Urszula Grubb, her mother, Halina, said she was grateful to those who have visited their tribute website and donated to The Brain and Spine Foundation.

The former St Paul's student from Shenley Lodge moved to Austria to study a masters degree in languages and was sledging with friends on January 18 when the accident occurred.

Coroner Rodney Corner heard that the 24-year-old went to a park near Vienna with her flat mate, Yelena Sokoloba, and another friend.

Urszula Grubb: Sustained fatal head and brain injuries in a sledging accident in Austria

Urszula and Yelena used an inflatable 'snow ring' to sledge downhill but they lost control, crashing into a tree and causing injuries to both.

Speaking at Milton Keynes Coroner's Court, Mrs Grubb said: "It was a ring you buy for sledging.

"Her flat mate was sitting in the front and my daughter was sitting in the back.

"They couldn't stop."

Urszula sustained head and brain injuries and was in a coma for five weeks at University Hospital, Vienna, as her parents stayed by her bedside.

However, she caught pneumonia and died on February 20.

A full inquest will take place in July.

Urszula was a talented linguist who could speak English, Polish, German and Latin.

Her mother said that she loved ballet and had ambitions to work at the Royal Opera House in London.

Urszula's funeral will take place at 1.15pm next Thursday, March 19, at Crownhill Crematorium, and her mother said that all friends are welcome to come and pay their last respects.

Instead of flowers, the family would like well-wishers to donate to the Brain and Spine Foundation, which aims to maximise the quality of life for people with neurological disorders and to reduce neurological disability by providing a national focus for research, education and information.

DJ Jo a (Nut)cracker

DJ Jo Whiley popped into Woolstones yesterday to see how Comic Relief has helped young people in Milton Keynes.

The Radio 1 morning show star visited St Francis Children's Society to look at first hand how Comic Relief's £60,000 three-year grant has helped fund the Nutcracker project there.

It helps young adopted people between the ages of 12 and 21 who are experiencing problems in their lives.

Chris Large, fundraising and marketing officer for the society said: "It was a pleasure to meet Jo and it was wonderful that she took such an interest in our work.

"We hope that her visit will help raise the profile of adoption and encourage more adoptive parents to come forward."

The society is holding a drop-in session for those interested in adoption on Monday, April 6

Roads adoption issue on agenda

But it's all 'too little, too late' according to a Tory councillor

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

AN era in which thousands of residents are living without council services could be brought to an end, following an MK NEWS investigation.

Last month we revealed that 79 sites across Milton Keynes await 'adoption' by the council.

Hundreds of roads under developers' control, even ones that have been completed for up to a decade, remain unfinished.

When street lights, potholes or signs break there the council has no power to fix them - despite residents having to pay council tax.

But now a motion, due to be presented to Milton Keynes Council last night, asks for an overhaul of the process of handing estates from developers to the council.

It would put the onus on Milton Keynes Partnership, the development agency, to ensure the 'speedy provision and completion of community infrastructure, to an agreed standard'.

At the moment, many estates are not being brought to this standard, leaving residents in a situation where getting a street light fixed or road swept becomes an impossibility because the council considers the area private.

Under the proposal, developers will be threatened with not getting contracts if they breach the rules.

However, some have argued that this motion ignores the current problem.

David Livingstone, chairman of Shenley Brook End and Tattenhoe Parish Council, which covers an area blighted by adoption issues, said: "Whilst I applaud proposed action in the future, it's not much help to those residents suffering today."

Conservative Cllr John Bint, whose eastern flank ward is largely unadopted, branded it 'too little too late'.

But Lib Dem Cllr Sam Crooks, who has been involved in tackling the issue for years, said it will address the existing backlog.

The motion says: "This council believes that the growth of Milton Keynes is not just about house building, but the provision and establishing of homes and communities."

Cllr Bint added the motion could be a 'PR gimmick to distract attention from how serious the problem has become under the Lib-Dem administration'.

He has tabled an amendment to the motion which he believes will do more to help residents of Broughton and Monkston Park.

Cllr Livingstone added: "Milton Keynes Council should be congratulated for moving quickly to address this matter. However, the motion appears to focus on future developments. What about existing problems? What do they plan to do about unfinished roads, which should have been completed by the developer, and then adopted by the council? In many cases, the developer has long gone. I would be most interested to hear how the council plans to tackle this important issue."

Golfers set to watch the birdies

THERE are birdies of another kind at a city golf course.

It isn't uncommon for golfers to hope for birdies on the course, but Abbey Hill Golf Centre is searching for them off it too.

Greenkeeper Paul Crooks, a keen bird lover, has installed 22 bird boxes around the golf course, in the hope of increasing the bird population around Abbey Hill.

The nesting boxes have been fixed to trees at various points around the centre's 18-hole main course and the 9-hole par-3 short course.

Paul said: "The boxes are designed for small nesting birds like blue tits, great tits, coal tits, sparrows and robins. I have noticed an increase in sparrow hawk activity around the course, and a decline in birds like the kestrel, which is probably due to the aggressive nature of the sparrow hawk. The boxes are made to protect the eggs and little chicks from attacks from predator birds and squirrels."

The sparrow hawk, however, is not the most vicious bird Paul has spotted at Abbey Hill, having once got close to an escaped vulture, which landed near the pond on the 18th hole.

According to the RSPB many bird species have halved in number over the last 25 years, including some of the UK's best-known countryside birds.

Nestboxes are an excellent way to help increase these numbers, with up to 60 species known to use them.

Gordon Forster, Abbey Hill Golf Centre general manager, added: "Golf courses are an oasis for wildlife in built up areas like Milton Keynes.

"Anything that will encourage more birds to Abbey Hill and aid ones already inhabiting the course is much appreciated, and we applaud Paul's efforts."

GATEHOUSE SCHOOL PARENTS SPEAK OUT

My boy used to come home with bruises and the marks of nails in his arms and neck. We just thought that was the policy

– Parent of a pupil at Gatehouse School

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

SCHOOL records have given an insight into the three years of 'inappropriate restraint' of children in a city special school.

One mother has obtained five months worth of restraint records of her then 12-year-old son from the Gatehouse School in Stantonbury which caters for boys with behavioural problems.

The form filled out by staff included tick boxes for types of restraint used, how long it was for and how many staff were involved.

A damning report into the management of the boys school was released last week.

The parent who requested her son's records said she was made to believe restraint was 'normal', until a press conference last week, when director of children's services Sharon Scott said that restraint was being used as a 'first resort' when it should not be used at all.

One example Mrs Scott gave of 'inappropriate restraint' was two teachers holding a child by his arms and legs.

But the mother says this is 'nothing' compared to what the boys faced regularly.

Records seen by MK NEWS show that there were examples of restraint known as 'single elbow' and 'wraps' used in 2006 and 2007. A wrap is believed to be when a person is held with their arms and legs behind them.

One incident report from October, 2006 said that teachers 'had to restrain him against the wall'.

Another penned by the school said: "His mother was concerned that he had marks on his arms but there was nothing there."

This parent is one of many who have spoken to MK NEWS about meetings with the council, regarding fears over children being locked in classrooms, coming home with bruises and also having school dinners withheld if they were naughty.

Why? Cllr Sandra Clark, cabinet member for children's services

A write-up on council-headed paper of a meeting held in April 2007 between the family and an officer said the pupil reported being bullied and manhandled by staff.

"When I asked him to elucidate on what he meant 'they're bullies and they manhandle you' he said 'they put you in a wrap'."

The officer added that the family 'have been to a council meeting about the school. They are awaiting the outcome of this meeting' and that the family report that within two hours of arrival at Gatehouse, [he] was restrained."

The family said they never heard anything after this meeting, or the others they had between 2005 and 2008.

During this period headteacher Suzanne Bell was in charge. She has since left the school following her suspension in October 2008.

The mother wants to know why it took for the director of children's services to spot something was wrong in the school, following a series of 'satisfactory' Ofsted reports and independent reviews.

She said: "My son began to think the normal day in school life was being restrained. School days are meant to be the best days of your life. It's the worst part of their lives. If we were doing that to them then we'd be arrested."

Another parent added: "My boy used to come home with bruises and the marks of nails in his arms and neck. We just thought that was the policy."

Cllr Sandra Clark, cabinet member for children's services, said: "Why were the pupil files not inspected? Why did Ofsted not pick it up from here? It's staggering. Two Ofsted reports, two independent reports – and they all failed to spot this in pupil files. We have to ask why."

A council spokesman said: "A wide number of these issues have already been highlighted in the report by independent expert Kathryn Stone and the council has already apologised sincerely over the historical problems at the school.

"We continue to work with the school, where the acting head teacher and his team are making very good progress, both in terms of the well-being of the pupils, and their educational attainments."

A special meeting will be held tonight of the council's Learning and Development Policy Development Committee. Its chairman, Conservative Cllr Andy Dransfield, is expected to call for the resignation of Cllr Clark.

He said: "There's a lack of strategic leadership. The administration are very good at taking credit for things that go right but won't take the blame for what goes wrong."

Cllr Clark maintains that though the abuse happened on her watch, she was constantly reassured by agencies and officers that the school was satisfactory. Her party has vowed to stand by her.

MK LETTERS

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Car pledge question

SIR – I read with interest your double-page item on the problems faced by commuters from MK, together with the letters.

We should recall that the Government was elected on a pledge to 'get people out of their cars'.

Managing to achieve the highest fares for the worst service in Europe hardly seems a way to meet this aim.

With an election only a year away at the most, perhaps Dr Starkey might like to comment on her government's record in this area but I am not optimistic about getting any response.

Frederick Toates
Marshworth, Tinkers Bridge

Milton Keynes is no longer viable as a commuter town

SIR – Having just spent an hour and 20 minutes on a London Midland train from Milton Keynes to London (a regular occurrence these days), I can but echo the sentiments of those who are criticising the train service .

At one stage Milton Keynes was a viable commuting town but not now.

Virgin Trains hardly bothers to provide a service, while the London Midland trains are invariably late, often cancelled at short notice and dangerously overcrowded.

I can't help but wonder why, despite billions of pounds of investment, we now have a service from Milton Keynes that is prohibitively expensive and vastly inferior compared to when the railways were a nationalised industry.

Steve Attree
Knox Bridge, Kents Hill

■ SIR – It is only natural that the debate about our rail services should concentrate on commuting to London.

However the situation regarding connections to the north is equally unsatisfactory.

We are a growing city of a quarter of a million people and have one of the busiest stations on the whole West Coast Mainline, yet Virgin's treatment of this town borders on the insulting.

It is now impossible to reach many places in the North by direct train, including Liverpool, Glasgow, in fact anywhere north of Crewe.

This must have a detrimental effect on our city in terms of business and tourism.

The reply from Virgin to the complaints is pathetic.

I was on Milton Keynes station at about 11am last Wednesday waiting to go to Euston. A Virgin train came in announced as 'not for public use'! A member of staff was on the platform to make sure I didn't get on. Nobody got off and the train pulled out with not enough passengers to fill a small bus.

So much for 'overcrowding and inconvenience to longer distance passengers'.

It wouldn't be so bad if it wasn't the fact that Virgin fights tooth and nail to prevent any other company competing with it.

They even tried to prevent the re-introduction of the Southern service to East Croydon, for heaven's sake.

This is because they have a 'moderation of competition' clause written into their contract.

Correspondence with the Office of Rail Regulation has proved fruitless, and it seems Virgin can simply disregard this city with impunity.

We have endured 10 years of disruptionand an increase in the size of MKC station and yet our service is worse than before.

The much-vaunted 20-minute frequency to Birmingham and Manchester has no benefit for us and only clogs up the tracks for services which might be more useful.

In any case, walk-on fares are so horrendous that booking becomes almost essential, just as Virgin wants; so whether trains are every 20 minutes or every hour is immaterial.

The privatised railway is a mess. It costs us as taxpayers four or five times what the same service cost under British Rail, as so much money is wasted on consultants, lawyers and a bloated, inefficient and ignorant Department of Transport.

More for less

SIR – I admired Jessica Cunniffe's piece which gave a good flavour of what occurred at last week's budget meeting.

What a contrast to the outrageous bile dished up by Andrew Maric in last week's letters.

The simple truth is that not a single Conservative stood up to propose cuts in school costs.

The whole scheme was that we could do more for the same cost or less and all that could be said (abuse apart) was that it was risky. It never was risky and the director of finance agreed it was a valid, lawful budget.

All we did was point out that the great Gordon Brown Plan to rebuild all old schools is not happening. Reason – the banks are bust and will not put money into PFI projects which is how the work was to be done.

We just said: 'let us spend what £350k we do have elsewhere until the financial position is clearer'. We never said don't do it at all.

We wanted to put that £350k into deprived areas, roads, pavements, redways, community safety – same as the Lib Dems just more of it.

As Jessica said, Sam Crooks thought they were good ideas.

We believe they were only blocked by a combined Labour-Lib Dem deal behind closed doors because they were Conservative ideas.

As for Newport Pagnell readers, and all others, remember this – it is the Henderson regime that failed for years to find the money to keep Ousedale (and others) up to scratch.

They had the chance and they blew it. Now they expect us all to take on a huge long term debt to fix what they did not. As if residents did not have enough debt to contend with just now.

People in MK deserve truth not spin.

Cllr David Tunney, Linford North
Conservative finance team

Medical necessity

SIR – I saw your article in this week's MK NEWS about people having to travel to Aylesbury for medical examinations when they are in receipt of incapacity benefit.

I had to go for a medical this week and I went to Northampton.

When I got the letter and rang up to make a appointment I was told the nearest place was Aylesbury, but as it is over a hour and half on the bus (I can't drive due to my medical condition) they said I could go to Northampton.

You can get a train there, which takes 15 minutes, then you get a bus from outside the station to the medical centre on Gladstone Road.

Yes, it's still a pain but easier and quicker than Aylesbury or London.

I think the problem is the people who work for ATOS don't know the area as I had a job trying to get them to find somewhere nearer than Aylesbury for me.

Angela Norris,
Sent by e-mail

Hi-viz tax warning

SIR – Driving home in MK last week there were a number of men in hi-viz vests picking litter on estates.

My wife says: "I have not seen that for some time." I said: "No it must be time for an increase in council tax."

Getting your paper on Wednesday evening ,what do I find on page 5? 'Council tax rise of 3.6 percent, they actually wanted 3.9 per cent but climbed down.'

Some climb down.

How do they expect people to keep paying these above inflation increases every year?

If they cannot manage to cope with a below or equal-to-inflation increase then they are incapable of running a council.

Brian O'Sullivan
Sent by e-mail

Gatehouse scandal

SIR – Re: 'Pupils at special school abused over three years'.

I am not at all surprised.

Education is a disaster and I have called upon councillors to seek a vote of no confidence in Cllr Sandra Clarke and the main administration.

The Gatehouse matter is a scandal and it does rank almost on a par with Haringey and Kirklees.

Paul Bartlett
Woodside, Stony Stratford

Teachers know best

SIR –The edicts that come from this council are often so crass.

Traffic lights replacing roundabouts, the destruction of the unique and effective grid system, the recent devastating increase in parking charges imposed at a time when we are all being stretched to the limit by food, fuel costs, etc.

One wonders whether they are deliberately trying to destroy what remains of their ever-diminishing electorate.

Perhaps, like the schoolteachers that most of them once were they are tring to rid us all of our nasty habits – like using cars – as if we are naughty children who must be taught a lesson.

Their latest iniquity, however, is more heartless and asinine than anyone could imagine.

Who was it, I wonder, who thought of such a diabolical idea like increasing the community alarm charge by a massive 15 per cent?

This at a time when the inflation rate is diving down to zero and, we are told, could well soon go negative.

Of course the people who desperatley need this service are the old, infirm, sick and vulnerable people whose incomes are mainly fixed and are now receiving no interest on their meagre savings.

A commercial business would rapidly go bust if it insisted on passing on all it's increased costs to its customers.

So beware Milton Keynes Council, bankruptcy may be just around the corner for you.

Club to appeal against closure

Buddha Blue loses its licence after councillors see police report detailing 74 'incidents' since July 2007

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

Robin Lyle: Buddha Blue's Ex-managing director and former BBC DJ known as Crucial Robbie

CITY nightclub Buddha Blue will appeal against a decision by councillors to close it down following a 'very violent incident'.

The licensing committee voted to revoke the nightclub's alcohol and entertainments licence at Milton Keynes Council on Wednesday.

A report showed that police have recorded 74 incidents linked to Buddha Blue since July 2007.

The review was sparked by a letter from Chief Superintendent Alan Baldwin after police were called to the nightclub on February 1.

Mr Baldwin said: "Door security operatives left their posts, both inside and outside the premises, leaving it open to potential crime and disorder and were involved in a very violent incident 20 metres away from the premises."

The managing director and former BBC DJ known as Crucial Robbie, Robin Lyle, was removed from his post four days later and the security contractor, Trojan, was also replaced.

However, Buddha Blue's appeal will mean that the nightclub remains open as normal until the appeal process is completed.

Yesterday a spokesman for Buddha Blue said: "We are extremely shocked and disappointed with this decision, to which we will certainly appeal.

"We have implemented the required changes to the venue, introduced a new door team and worked closely with the police, but still this decision has been made.

"For now, Buddha Blue is open until 4am as usual.

"We are continuing to offer top entertainment as well as our Face of Buddha Blue competition."

Thirty-three of the incidents recorded by police have taken place since New City Nites Limited took over the club in May 2008.

Chief Inspector Andy Standen said: "We are pleased with the outcome and the decision of the panel to revoke Buddha Blue's license.

"We have tried to work with the club for some time but there have continued to be incidents and problems with the management and control of the premises.

"We had serious concerns around crime and disorder and for public safety at the venue so we had no choice but to seek the revocation of the license.

"We are still in the process of investigating a disturbance at the venue in February and one man is currently on police bail in connection with this."

One in five jobs to go at Argos

A FIFTH of the staff at Argos's head office will lose their jobs.

On Monday, Argos and Homebase operator Home Retail Group, whose head office is based on Avebury Boulevard, announced 300 redundancies.

In January MK NEWS announced that the company was holding a consultation into cutting jobs.

A press officer said that of the 2,000-odd staff members, 'potentially, up to 95 jobs with Argos and 95 jobs with Home Retail Group' would be cut.

However, it seems the company has increased this prediction by more than 50 per cent.

In the 18 weeks to January, sales in Argos declined by 7.5 per cent, while sales at Homebase were down 10.2 per cent.

Chief executive Terry Duddy said markets are being significantly impacted by the sharp reduction in consumer spending.

A spokesman said: "We have been able to keep job losses at a minimum by implementing a recruitment freeze earlier in the year and by redeploying some colleagues where possible."

Six stand trial for violent disorder

SIX men have begun trial over allegations of violent disorder outside Wolverton Mosque two years ago.

The men, four of whom are members of the same family in Wolverton, appeared at Oxford Crown Court on Thursday at the start of a trial which is expected to last around four weeks.

The allegations relate to an incident on January 12, 2007, when police responded to reports of a fight in the Agora carpark.

Adil Ur Rehman, 19, Jamil Rehman, 32, Jalil Rehman, 32, and Khalil Rehman, 47, all from Victoria Street, are charged with violent disorder.

Another man, Shazad Zabell Khan, 25, of Passmore, Tinkers Bridge, stands charged with the same offence, as does 28-year-old Asif Hussain from Buckingham Street, Aylesbury.

Each of the defendents is currently on bail.

400 drunken teenagers in church hall rave rampage

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

Church of the Servant King in Furzton: Facebook-organised party-goers caused £3,000 damage to toilet cubicles and fence

TEENAGERS used Facebook to organise a boozy rave at a church hall.

Police were called to the Church of the Servant King in Furzton at 8pm after reports of drunken youths spilling out from the hall.

They found more than 300 drunk teenagers, many as young as 16, inside and more than 100 gathered outside.

The party-goers had torn off the doors in the toilet cubicles and wrecked a fence outside.

Three police riot vans were called in to restore control.

The rave was advertised on the online social networking site, Facebook, and tickets were sold for £10 each.

One neighbour, Seth Ward, 28, said: "When I looked over it was total chaos. There were groups of kids walking out, screaming and shouting.

"They weren't old enough to drink.

"Some of them looked about 14 and they were dressed up in short black dresses and a lot of revealing tops.

"There was a lot of drinking going on and I couldn't see any adults around at all."

The 18-year-old who booked the hall told the owners that he was hosting a birthday party but police described it as a 'flash mob'.

A statement from Thames Valley Police said: "The licence for the hall states it is not permitted to hold more than 200 people, so there was clearly a health and safety issue.

"It became clear that the organiser had not booked the venue for a family birthday but for a rave for 16 to 18-year-olds."

A fire safety officer also attended the incident, at Dulverton Drive on Saturday, February 28.

Alcohol was confiscated from the underage drinkers and the venue was eventually cleared by 11.30pm.

The organiser was arrested on suspicion of fraud for obtaining a service by deception.

He was later released with a caution.

As people arrived for Sunday service the next day, they found the church lawn littered with empty bottles and cans, and began the clean up operation. Church minister Mike Morris estimated the cost of the damage at around £3,000.

He said: "The booking was taken in good faith but we would like to apologise to the neighbours for any disturbance caused.

"People were sad that it happened and that there was this mess."

He added that the church would tighten up it's booking procedures.

PC Steven O'Neill said: "The police intend to deal robustly with such gatherings.

"This should be a warning to anyone who considers organising an event of this nature by booking a venue under false pretences that they will be arrested and could face conviction and a criminal record.

"Events such as this can cause anti-social behaviour and can put people's lives at risk."

Train conductors' strike to disrupt commuter travel

STRIKES are likely to cause disruption for rail travellers on Friday and Monday.

Around 100 conductors working at London Midland depots at Bletchley, Northampton and Watford are to strike for 24 hours on March 13 and again on March 16 over being 'bullied' to work on Sundays.

Members of the RMT union voted in favour of the action after not being allowed to opt out of working Sundays and disputes over receiving enhanced payments for working into 'rest days'.

The train operator says the union is forcing it to cut up to 60 per cent of its services.

RMT general secretary Bob Crow said: "Now we have London Midland not only trying to force conductors to work up to 60 hours a week, but even trying to discipline our members for exercising their rights."

A London Midland statement says: "The RMT appears to be determined to cause disruption and uncertainty to passengers over issues that date back 10 years. It is particularly disappointing that passengers face disruption because of agreements which date back over ten years and which the RMT is choosing to make an issue of now."

It added that London Midland is committed to delivering services seven days a week, including services for those wishing to travel on Sundays.

Prison wild man hits big screen

A FILM about a former Woodhill inmate hits the big screens on Friday.

The Charles Bronson biopic, called Bronson The Movie, stars Tom Hardy as Bronson, Peep Show's Matt King, Amanda Burton and James Lance.

It is being released two days before he goes before the parole board to try and win his freedom.

Bronson, right, was originally jailed for seven years after an armed robbery but has now spent 34 years behind bars.

Some of this was at Woodhill Prison, when he took a guard hostage and demanded a helicopter, an inflatable doll and a cup of tea as ransom.

The former bare-knuckle fighter from Luton has been incarcerated for so long after carrying out a string of violent crimes while behind bars.

Willen rakes in £10k

BY LAURA HANNAM

NEARLY ten thousand pounds has been raised by a local hospice after an appeal for funding was launched in this paper.

The head of Willen Hospice has warned that much more needs to be done to prevent the charity from suffering a budget shortfall of more than half a million pounds this year.

The hospice's prediction of a massive knock to their finances caused by the recession, published in MK NEWS in February, has been met with offers of support from individuals and community groups organising events and fundraising activities in Milton Keynes.

Paul Hinson, chief executive of the hospice said: "We are very grateful to all those that have made a donation or offer to fundraise for us in response to the appeal. However, there has not been a huge increase in actual donations.

"Less than £10,000 has so far come in so we are still looking at ending this financial year in the same position."

In an attempt to raise funds Willen Hospice, which provided care to over 400 terminally ill people last year, has organised a big new event to be held on July 18, called the MK Midnight Moo. A thousand women are set to follow a 10-mile route across some of the city's iconic landscapes.

Staff and supporters are also taking part in a special parachute jump on May 9.

The hospice relies on donations to cover 75 per cent of its costs.

For more information about how you can support the charity visit www.willen-hospice.org.uk or call 01908 663636.

Haringey, Doncaster, Surrey and Milton Keynes

The only one-star rated councils in the country

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE council has been rated among the bottom three per cent of authorities in the country by the Audit Commission.

As revealed on our website last Thursday, Milton Keynes Council has been given a one star, or 'weak', rating out of an available four in the independent watchdog's Comprehensive Performance Assessment (CPA).

The authority, which is 'not improving adequately' according to the assessment, has plummeted down two stars from its three star rating last year and is one of only four authorities in the country that have been given one star, also including Haringey, Doncaster, and Surrey.

All four of these councils fell by two categories after their children's services were rated 'inadequate' by Ofsted in December.

Andrew Geary, leader of the local Conservatives, said: "We are disappointed that the council has gone from three to one star; it is not good enough for the people of Milton Keynes.

"It shows that the Liberal Democrat administration can't keep up with the pace any more. They are either standing still or moving backwards."

Conservative MP for Milton Keynes North East, Mark Lancaster, said: "This is clearly disappointing news and a major step in the wrong direction for the city. There has been a lack of leadership in the council over recent months and it simply underlines the urgent need to fill the vacant chief executive's position."

All four of these councils fell by two categories after their children's services were rated 'inadequate' by Ofsted

Dr Phyllis Starkey, Labour MP for Milton Keynes South West said: "It is appalling and the council's political leadership needs to face up to its continued failure to deliver a decent level of service to people in Milton Keynes instead of constantly blaming it on others. It is true that the rating has been dragged down by the assessment on children's services but this is because children's services are a crucial responsibility."

Local Labour boss Cllr Norman Miles said: "We urge the administration to make every possible step to bring the council back to the three star authority it was before."

The head of Milton Keynes Council, Cllr Isobel McCall, said out of eight areas of council activity surveyed three have shown an improvement since the last assessment, with scores moving from two to three stars in housing, environment and culture.

Social care for adults, benefits and corporate assessment or capacity to improve maintained a good performance with a score of three and use of resources remained the same at two stars.

Only services for children and young people has fallen.

Cllr McCall said: "It is encouraging that the inspectors recognise these genuine achievements and much good work is already under way to improve our work with children and young people and this has been acknowledged by the inspectors.

"The creation of the new Children and Young People's Services Directorate sends out a strong signal of our intent to improve on perceived areas of weakness. The arrival of a new service director this spring will also bring fresh energies and ideas to this important area of our work."

"We will continue to engage with Government departments and the inspectorates about improvement planning and what sort of support we can expect. We will also put in place measures for the council more widely, although in most cases we already have work under way.

"We will be working closely with councillors across all of the parties to address areas of concern and perceived weaknesses."

Kate Page, acting chief executive of the council, added: "We have already shown the way forward through some of the good work we have already done.

"Yes, our reduced star rating will be seen as a setback but we are determined to continue working hard to improve services for the people of MK."

STATION SQUARE REVAMP

If council transport officers knew anything about transport, they'd know that what commuters want is more parking with decent lighting and CCTV and a refurbishment of the station

– Commuter John Baker who claims the two options are almost identical and offer little more than new bus stops

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

AN architect involved in designing Milton Keynes says the plans for Station Square go against the original vision of the city.

Commuters and a rail group have also raised concerns about a public consultation currently under way into the revamping of the city's 'gateway'.

Until April 27, people will have the chance to say which of the two options they would prefer to see at the area in front of the train station.

The consultation says that there is little chance of significant development activity for the next five to ten years, so these proposals are medium-term improvements to serve up until 2016.

These intend to address the 'inefficient transport interchange and shortage of bus stops', as well as the 'conflict' between vehicles and pedestrians on exit and the 'poor sense of arrival'.

Chairman of Central Milton Keynes Town Council, which covers the train station, Ken Baker, believes that there should be more choice, and has drawn up his own proposal.

He has dubbed option one a 'great big bus station', which is covered in tarmac, and says option two offers little alternative.

He says what has been put forward is not in keeping with the original vision of the city.

"One of the troubles is they don't hold the qualities written into the original masterplan, which is about movement and freedom. People talk about the new vision for Milton Keynes, but we don't need a new vision. As the town council we will be pressing for a third idea to be put forward to the people of Milton Keynes."

Jill Hope, spokesman for MK Rail Users' Group, said both options raised concerns.

"Although we welcome the idea it will be a better gateway to Milton Keynes there were concerns about positioning of the taxi rank and a definite concerns about the lack of shelter. Also the implication that the buses will be backing out posed a safety issue."

Commuter John Baker said the consultation conceals more than it reveals, for example that the number of long stay parking spaces in Station Square will drop from 121 to 0 in both options.

Spaces in total will drop from 152 at present to 99 or 103.

He added: "The two options are almost identical and offer little more than new bus stops. If council transport officers knew anything about transport, they'd know that what commuters want is more parking with decent lighting and CCTV, and a refurbishment of the station to provide warm waiting areas in order to tackle Arctic conditions during winter."

Cllr Douglas McCall, cabinet member responsible for public transport said: "The work at Station Square is just one part of a number of initiatives the council are considering to make moving about the city easier especially using public transport.

The public will be able to view a permanent display at the central railway station and this week between 3.30pm and 7.30pm council staff will be available to answer questions.

Plea to make sure your number's up

House ID is vital to police, paramedics and firefighters

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

Addressing house ID issue: Paramedic Mark Begley, operations manager for Milton Keynes with the South Central Ambulance Service

IF the worst happened and someone in your home needed the emergency services, could they find you quickly?

Firefighters, paramedics and police are calling for residents in Milton Keynes to make sure the house number on your property is clearly visible from the road day or night.

Emergency services may struggle to find houses without a number displayed, with trees or bushes blocking it or with no outside light to illuminate it.

Vital seconds may be lost searching up and down a road for the right house or knocking on the wrong door.

Paramedic Mark Begley, operations manager for Milton Keynes with the South Central Ambulance Service, estimated that ambulance crews have some difficulty finding incidents for this reason 'at least once or twice a week, if not more'.

"It can take us five to six minutes to get to a road and a further five to six minutes to find the actual house number," he said.

"We have got fantastic equipment on our ambulances that almost pin points where the incident is but it's not 100 per cent every time and sometimes at night time you are going down a very dark road and you need to confirm that it is the right address. The last thing you want to do is knock on someone's door and they haven't called you.

"People don't ring 999 for nothing, they want an emergency response and we want to get there as quickly as we can.

"We recommend that you go to the end of your path, turn around and see if you can see your number; if you can't see it clearly then neither can we."

He advised residents with houses that don't have a number to give the emergency services other ways of finding their location easily when they call 999.

"Any feature helps us to get to you; such as 'the hazard warning lights are on my car outside', or 'we are opposite the pub' or 'next to the telephone kiosk'," he added.

Thames Valley Police and Buckinghamshire Fire and rescue Service have backed the paramedic's appeal.

A spokesman for the fire service said: "It is a great help to our control room staff and firefighters when callers give as much detail as possible about where the incident is and when property names and numbers are displayed clearly."

Bletchley Park proves more popular than ever

Park director Simon Greenish thanks everyone for support

BLETCHLEY Park is celebrating being more popular than ever

Despite the unfolding economic crisis and fears for the worst, 2008 was the most successful year for Bletchley Park since it opened as a visitor attraction in 1992, in terms of visitor numbers, financial donations, media coverage and high profile events.

Simon Greenish, Bletchley Park director said: "After years of struggling to remain open and keep the historic buildings in good repair, we have been overwhelmed by the level of public and media support for our campaign to safeguard Bletchley Park for future generations.

"I would like to extend a personal thank you to everyone who has given their support to our campaign. We still have a long way to go and will continue to work tirelessly to raise the funds needed to secure the future of Bletchley Park but we are hopeful that with continued public support, the successes of 2008 can be repeated, if not exceeded in 2009."

Increased awareness of the campaign through extensive UK and international media coverage and the tireless activities of Bletchley Park's small team of staff and around 120 volunteers, was directly responsible for a 40 per cent increase in visitor numbers during 2008 to over 80,000 people.

On-line donations via www.bletchley-park.org.uk soared and a number of significant private donations were received. A grant of £330,000 from English Heritage in November 2008 was a landmark for the Park, helping to secure the roof of the Mansion and some of the building's delicate interiors.

The most high profile event of 2008 was a visit by Their Royal Highnesses, The Prince of Wales and The Duchess of Cornwall, who opened a new 'From Bletchley, With Love' exhibition about Ian Fleming in July.

In his speech, HRH The Prince of Wales emphasised the importance of maintaining the unique heritage site and lent his own support to the restoration project saying: "You are the keepers of one of the greatest British success stories. Workers here had ensured that this country finally emerged victorious from World War Two."

Promoting Twentieth Century Fox Home Entertainment's launch of the first six Bond films on Blu-ray Disc at Bletchley Park in October, Sir Roger More also lent his support to the cause, agreeing with journalists that the government should step in to provide funds for its preservation.

Far left: The Prince of Wales and Duchess of Cornwall arrive at The Mansion House last July

Left: Roger Moore's visit highlighted the James Bond connection

Early in 2008 - unknown to Bletchley Park - a private individual set up an online petition on the Government petition website to 'Save Bletchley Park'. Huge public support catapulted the petition to the number five slot, where it has remained for a number of months. Currently it has been signed by nearly 20,000 people. http://petitions.number10.gov.uk/BletchleyPark/.

In 2009, Bletchley Park will be applying for a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund.

Community awards for young people

YOUNGSTERS have been rewarded for helping their community.

The Achieve MK Awards, organised by Milton Keynes Council's Youth Service and the Milton Keynes Council for Voluntary Youth Organisations (MKCVYS) are in their second year and recognise the contribution made by young people to help their communities.

The Awards evening, supported by Make a Difference and MK Youthbank was held at Opus in the Theatre District last Wednesday.

Categories for 13-19-year-olds included the team participation award for a group of learning disabled young people called the Ask Team and victory for 15-year-old Daniel Pritchard in the volunteer of the year category for his work mentoring younger children at a playscheme.

While the MK YouthBank team received 'You're a Star' Awards for their hard work and commitment over the last year in deciding on the Youth Opportunity Fund grants to be paid to other young people.

Hilary Solway, youth participation officer, said, "It's a real pleasure to be running the second year of these awards which recognise the contributions of young people, from supporting younger children with fun, educational events and workshops to fundraising activities to raise money for charities."

Cllr Sandra Clark, cabinet member responsible for youth services, added: "Young people and those who support them are key to the future of MK.

"I'm delighted that the council is highlighting the achievements of young people, and inspiring other young people to focus on being good citizens and making a difference in their local communities."

Winners: Sandra Clark with MK YouthBank team

Three injured in multiple crash

THREE people were taken to hospital with serious injuries after a three-car crash on Sunday.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the collision on the Bletchley to Drayton Parslow road.

At about 5pm between Rectory Farm and Burnell Farm just outside Bletchley a silver BMW 1-series, travelling towards Drayton Parslow, collided with a black Vauxhall Antara travelling towards Bletchley. A Land Rover Defender was also involved.

Two fire crews attended and released two men, who were injured.

The driver and one of the passengers from the BMW were taken to Milton Keynes General Hospital with serious injuries. The second passenger from the BMW was airlifted to the John Radcliffe 2 hospital in Oxford, also with serious injuries.

All remain in hospital in a stable condition.

Both occupants of the Vauxhall were taken to Milton Keynes General Hospital with minor injuries. The Land Rover driver was uninjured.

A spokesman for Thames Valley Police said none of the injuries are thought to be life-threatening.

Police would like to speak to anyone who witnessed the collision or who may have seen any of the vehicles in the area around that time.

Transexual enters city club's 'face of' comp

Miss on a mission: Alle Segretti

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A TRANSSEXUAL hermaphrodite hopes to defy convention by becoming the 'face' of a city nightclub.

Parent-of-four Alle Segretti, 35, who lives as a woman with her wife and children in Oldbrook, has entered a competition to be 'The Face of Buddha Blue', an RnB nightclub in the Theatre District.

It is the unemployed film maker's first foray into the world of beauty, having been born as a hermaphrodite and lived as a man until 2006.

As MK NEWS reported last week, following a series of abusive incidents since she moved to Milton Keynes six months ago, Miss Segretti is making it her mission to educate people about transgender issues.

She believes that the club would benefit from defying stereotypes, shaking up perceptions of beauty.

She said: "Beauty contests are often judged superficially. But we should just be ourselves and be happy with ourselves. Beauty's a lot broader than it's portrayed."

She hopes her bold move will help the countless other transgender people in Milton Keynes, many of whom she believes are too scared to go outside.

"I think when people start to see other people being accepted people get more comfortable with themselves. There's always going to be a degree of bigotry."

A spokesman for the nightclub said: "We're delighted Alle has entered into the spirit of the competition. We have had a wonderful and diverse mix of entries all wanting to be the next Face of Buddha Blue. Entry has now closeded and we will soon start the voting process through our website where the ten entries with the highest number of votes will be invited to the club for the grand final.

"We wish Alle and all the other entries the best of luck."

Alle Segretti's workshop on transphobia will take place at the city's first Hate Crime Conference today.

Medical centre to be built on nursing home site

A TWO-STOREY medical centre is to be built in Bletchley.

The council has given the go ahead for the local health service to build a doctor's surgery, dental practice and pharmacy on the site of Tweed House Nursing Home, in Witham Court, which closed last July.

The proposals were refused by Milton Keynes Council in October but a revised planning application was granted permission last Thursday (March 5).

The medical centre will provide a new building for Whaddon House surgery. The development will also include three flats and four houses. A petition against the first application, signed by 56 residents, raised concerns that the increase in traffic could create an accident black spot.

A spokesman for NHS Milton Keynes said: "The design team has worked with Milton Keynes Council to address any concerns that have been raised during the development process and firmly believe that this is the best solution."

Food trailer stolen

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A SINGLE mother-of-three has seen her livelihood stolen by thieves in Fishermead.

An inspirational entrepreneur, Abosede Oderinde, opened her own food van to help support her three children.

With some start-up help from a local company, Business Link, she was successfully selling Afro Caribbean food every day in Fishermead, from 5pm until 9pm.

She spends the rest of her day caring for her elderly mother and children, aged 12, 9 and 6.

But last Tuesday thieves removed a wheel clamp and hitch lock from the trailer which was parked opposite Cox & Robinsons chemists on Fishermead Boulevard.

When Abosede returned the next afternoon the trailer had gone and the police have been unable to trace it.

Abosede said: "At the moment I'm struggling because that's my living that has been taken from me.

"It had all my fridges, freezers and fire blankets in it.

"I won't be able to get another loan from the bank so there's no one who can help.

"I believe in miracles but I can't see any hope at the moment."

The trailer was not insured.

Paul Griffifths, from Business Link, said: "It wasn't an opportunist crime, these people would have had to come prepared.

"Abosede invested a considerable amount in the trailer by re-mortgaging her home and now this is all gone.

"She is a proud, church-going woman and she has never been on benefits, always trying to remain financially independent and cannot comprehend the callousness of the people involved in this theft that has left her distraught."

Anyone with information about the theft can contact police on 08458 505505 or call Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

MKNEWSBRIEFS

Driver injured in tree collision

A DRIVER sustained serious injuries when his car hit a tree on the A5130.

At 1.45pm on Friday, March 6 a metallic grey Mercedes C220 drove off the road as it travelled south from the M1 near Broughton.

The driver was been taken to Milton Keynes Hospital with serious injuries.

Anyone who witnessed the crash is asked to contact Sgt Scott Silk at Roads Policing on 08458 505505.

Don't miss out on lotto cash

COMMUNITY and voluntary groups are being encouraged to apply for grants as Milton Keynes is now a priority area for the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF).

The city has been chosen as it has previously received fewer grants from the organisation than other areas.

Dr Christine Garwood, HLF development officer, said: "We want to encourage local organisations to apply for funding. Whichever aspect of Milton Keynes' heritage you choose to explore, we want to hear from you.

"The south east development team would be happy to help you work up your ideas and make an application."

The HLF enables communities to celebrate, look after and learn more about our diverse heritage, from museums and historic buildings to local parks and beauty spots or recording and celebrating traditions, customs and history.

Since 1994 the HLF has awarded over £378million to more than 2,660 projects in south east England.

For more information call 020 7591 6085.

New lift at library

A NEW lift has been opened at Milton Keynes Central Library

The lift, which cost £65,000, will provide better access to disabled people at the centre.

Vanessa McPake, cabinet member for libraries at Milton Keynes Council, said: "This modern lift improves access for people with disabilities to the first floor of the library and features audio floor alerts, door closing warnings, buttons for disabled users to delay door closings and illuminated signs.

"Also, the door is wider for easier access for wheelchairs."

Police hunt flasher

A FLASHER exposed himself as a woman was walking her dog by a lake.

The victim was walking at Furzton Lake at 10.40am on Saturday, February 28, when a man came out of the bushes and indecently exposed himself.

The offender is described as white, around 25-years-old, 5ft 10ins tall, of stocky build, with dark brown hair, wearing a white hooded top, black Adidas bottoms and white trainers.

In a similar incident a flasher exposed himself to a mother and daughter as they walked near Furzton Lake on February 14.

Anyone with information can contact PC Jim Adams on 08458 505505 or call Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Memories to be turned into film

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

ARTS charity Inter-Action MK has been given £48,000 to create a lasting record of community art in Milton Keynes.

Working with oral history group Living Archive the project, called Recollections MK, will train volunteers from across the city in interviewing and filmmaking skills so the memories of local people can be used to produce a DVD.

The money has been granted by the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF). Special artwork will also be created to show future generations how art and the community have evolved together in the new and growing city.

Inter-Action director Sharon Paulger said: "People often approach us to share their memories of being involved in Inter-Action MK projects and we thought we really need to record these before they are lost or forgotten.

"With this support from HLF we are able to work with the local community to conserve and share these stories along with all the photographs and recordings we have kept over the years."

Recollections MK will hold an open day to re-connect with people who have been involved in projects since Interaction was founded 33 years ago and will launch a series of artist-led workshops for families, young people and members of the older generation.

A record of community art in Milton Keynes has been made possible by a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund

Out of this will come a series of 18-inch square tiles, possibly using ceramics, photography, embroidery or mosaics, each reflecting past events in the city or artistic achievements.

The tiles created will be displayed in the city centre and then placed permanently at Inter-Action's Old Rectory headquarters at Peartree Bridge.

The DVD is to be featured on the Milton Keynes digital TV channel Ask MKTV and other information will be accessible on Inter-Action MK's website.

Michelle Davies, head of HLF South East England said: "This project will pool the memories of local people with historic material previously gathered to provide a record of community life and artistic achievement that will strengthen the identity of Milton Keynes."

ISIS CHIROPRACTIC KEEPS RUNNERS ON TRACK

The Chiropractors at ISIS Clinic continue to successfully treat a full range of Sports Injuries, but at this time of year they see a significant increase in the number of injuries relating to running. The ISIS Chiropractors are pleased to treat professional sports persons, enthusiastic amateurs and keen weekend athletes.

Running is an activity that can really benefit all people regardless of age and as the better weather lifts the spirits of the regular runners, it also encourages those less used to running to leave their arm chairs and take to the road to train for charity fund raising events such as The Race for Life and the London Marathon.

Take proper precautions to avoid injury.

Before beginning any exercise programme or training for an event, we advise that you address all aspects of your fitness level.

Book a chiropractic examination to review your medical history and carry out a functional/ biomechanical screening.

Seek appropriate advice and purchase quality footwear suitable for running (i.e. trainers with good support, proper sole contour, flexibility, impact-shock absorbency etc)

It is interesting to note that
- Due to the repetitive and cumulative nature of the running, this is the most injury prone sport
- 60% of runners experience an injury at some time, which prevents them running

There are two types of injuries a runner may sustain, acute trauma and an overuse injury.

The acute trauma is sudden such as a torn ligament or broken bone, however, the most frequent problems encountered by chiropractors are injuries caused by overuse.

The majority of running injuries occur from overtraining so avoid doing too much too soon.

- Your progress in mileage and speed should be gradual
- Mileage should only be increased by Approximately 10% per week. Every third week drop back a small amount.
- Intersperse hard days with easy days each week.
- Devote one or two days each week to rest or non-running activities to allow the body to recover
- Warming-up and regular stretching may help reduce injuries
- Have a chiropractor assess your running technique and running posture
- Pain is a warning sign; do not run through pain. Stop running and consult a chiropractor immediately

For details on typical running injuries, their cause, treatment and rehabilitation, please visit our website.

www.isischiropractic.co.uk

ISIS CLINIC IN ASSOCIATION WITH BROOKS SHOES AND THE SWEATSHOP ARE HOLDING AN EVENT FOR RUNNERS (AND WALKERS) ON THURSDAY 12TH MARCH 4 PM – 8 PM AT THEIR KILN FARM PREMISES!!

To book your free Gait Analysis and Functional Movement Assessment ring the Milton Keynes Clinic.

This will also be an opportunity for you to receive expert advice on the treatment & rehabilitation of sports injuries and sports nutrition. Runners will also enjoy speaking to Marcin Fudalej, the ISIS Gym Manager, who has 10 years professional running experience, was 3 times National Champion of Poland (800m/1500m) and a member of the Polish National Olympic team in Athens in 2004.

Destination Milton Keynes (DMK) has a stand at the upcoming Outdoors Show at the NEC Birmingham to help promote the city.

Milton Keynes boasts a wide variety of outdoor and indoor activities to suit all tastes and budgets as well as some of the best entertainment and leisure facilities outside of London.

Evidence Talks forensics lab manager Richard Peake, the OU's Blaine Price, student Dave Lancaster and Evidence Talks MD Andrew Sheldon

Picture: Jack Howell

Watching the detectives

AN award-winning Open University student got the chance to put his newly-acquired knowledge into practice when he spent a day working with one of the country's leading forensic computing companies.

Dave Lancaster shadowed laboratory manager and senior forensic analyst Richard Peake, observing how real-life digital crime investigations are carried out at the Milton Keynes HQ of Evidence Talks Ltd.

Dave, a 45-year-old probation officer, was voted best student after being awarded a distinction on the OU's first course in computer forensics and investigations.

As part of his prize he got to spend a whole day observing Evidence Talks experts in action.

He said: "It was excellent. It certainly put the OU course into context and established practice, not theory. It was fascinating to watch some of the messages covered in the course being carried out in real life. Nothing quite compares."

The budding computer detective certainly made a good impression on managing director Andrew Sheldon and the rest of the team at Evidence Talks.

"It is no surprise to us that Dave won the best student award. He has just the right temperament and the balance between methodical thinking and creativity to make an excellent forensic analyst," Andrew said.

"The whole team here was impressed by his logical approach and ability to assimilate relevant facts quickly.

"With his background in the criminal justice system and IT skills he is exactly the sort of person the forensic computing industry is desperate to recruit at the moment."

The OU's senior lecturer in computing, Blaine Price, said: "Computer forensics is a very tough course for many students as they learn that it is a lot more involved than the version you see on TV."

Mothers Day

The History behind Mothering Sunday

Mothering Sunday was also known as 'Refreshment Sunday' or 'Mid-Lent Sunday'. No one is absolutely certain exactly how the idea of Mothering Sunday began. However, it is known that on this day, about four hundred years ago, people made a point of visiting their nearest big church (the Mother Church). People who visited their mother church would say they had gone "a mothering."
Young British girls and boys 'in service' (maids and servants) were only allowed one day to visit their family each year. This was usually Mothering Sunday. Often the housekeeper or cook would allow the maids to bake a cake to take home for their mother. Sometimes a gift of eggs; or flowers from the garden (or hothouse) was allowed. Flowers were traditional, as the young girls and boys would have to walk home to their village, and could gather them on their way home through the meadows.
We now carry on the tradition of celebrating Mothers Day and these local companies can offer you the best choices in spoiling your mum and showing her how much you care.

FILM REVIEW

GRAN TORINO (15)
PRETTY much everything Clint Eastwood touches turns to gold – and this original story is no different – combining drama, intrigue and emotion, with a touch of dry comedy.

Eastwood gets it spot-on as grizzled and ultra-patriotic Korean War vet Walt Kowalski, who has recently buried his wife and only has his dog as a companion.

A racist slur or two towards his immigrant neighbours in a rough Detroit suburb is a daily occurrence for this bitter man, slowly smoking and drinking himself to death, while sticking to everything American, including his prized 1972 Ford Gran Torino.

But after young Southern Chinese neighbour Thao (Bee Yang) tries to steal his car as part of a gang initiation, Walt's bigotry is put to the test as he befriends the boy and his sister Sue (Ahney Her).

Walt soon becomes an unlikely hero to the family next door when he fends off the advances of the gang towards Thao but then has to play piggy in the middle as he gets embroiled in ethnic warfare.

More than just a simple racial morality tale, Gran Torino is a beautifully-paced story brimming with originality and tastefully balanced humour.

This is up there with Eastwood's best on his burgeoning CV, even at the tender age of 78-years-young, and the fantastic finale is worth the admission fee alone.

MK THEATRE INTERVIEW

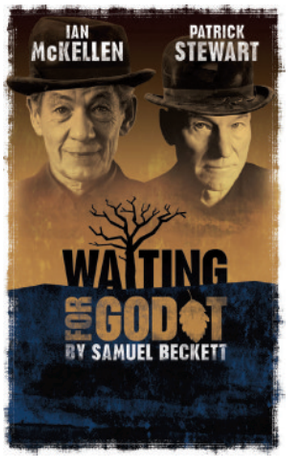
One of the art highlight's of the year – Waiting for Godot starring Ian McKellen and Patrick Stewart – opens at MK Theatre on Monday. MK NEWS caught up with the stars



IN 1957, as a 17-year-old drama student at Bristol's Old Vic Theatre School, Patrick Stewart went to see Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot, starring a then unknown actor called Peter O'Toole. It was an unforgettable experience. 'When he came on stage, my sense was that the lights brightened' says Stewart of O'Toole's charismatic turn as Vladimir, who, with friend and fellow vagrant Estragon, dominates Beckett's most celebrated play. Stewart left that performance in Bristol determined that one day he would play Vladimir and, half a century later, the man known to millions of TV viewers as Star Trek's Captain Jean-Luc Picard finally fulfils that ambition appearing in Waiting for Godot, with Ian McKellen as Estragon.

This award-winning pair have known each other since the mid-1970s, when for several years they were leading lights in the Royal Shakespeare Company ensemble although they shared the stage in just one production, Tom Stoppard's Every Good Boy Deserves Favour.

Then, between 2000 and 2006, they starred in Hollywood's hugely successful X-Men trilogy. In those action-packed blockbusters they were cast as sworn enemies, McKellen as the evil Magneto and Stewart as Prof. Xavier. In Waiting for Godot, however, they portray extremely close, if argumentative, pals. 'They need each other to stay alive,' says Stewart of the characters who spend the drama awaiting a rendez-vous with the mysterious Godot.

The overlap in Stewart and McKellen's theatre experience, especially in Shakespeare (both have played Macbeth, Prospero in The Tempest and Leontes in The Winter's Tale) and high-profile screen appearances (X-Men, Star Trek and, for McKellen, the Lord of the Rings trilogy) has given them an invaluable head-start for their Beckett roles. Picking up on numerous clues in the script, they and the production's director, Sean Mathias, are convinced that Vladimir and Estragon were once a professional double-act, who performed together for many years.

'We landed enthusiastically on the idea that a good starting point, and maybe finishing point, is to make theirs a theatre relationship,' says McKellen, sitting opposite Stewart during a mid-morning break at the Godot rehearsal rooms in Southwark, south London. 'They say things like 'Oh my feet are hurting – will you help me to take my boots off?' which is the kind of conversation that could happen between people sharing a dressing room. Audiences could imagine that Patrick and I have spent our lives being in plays together. We've had very similar careers, and clearly like the same sorts of plays. Those members of the Godot audience who've just seen us separately in Shakespeare productions will, I hope, find it fun that these two guys are now in a Beckett play, wearing baggy trousers and bowler hats.'

He continues: 'All the evidence in the script is that Vladimir and Estragon are old friends, both pushing 70.' McKellen will be 70 in May, and Stewart turns 69 this summer, which means that 'Patrick and I are the ideal age to be playing these parts. We're still active, but, like Vladimir and Estragon, we know about aches and pains!' Stewart adds: 'Ian and I are both Northerners, separated only by the Pennines, and I think there's another element there that gives us a shared understanding for the play.'

Since Godot's British premiere in 1955, which led Harold Hobson, drama critic of the Sunday Times from 1947 76, to call it 'the most unforgettable and important' night of his theatergoing life, the play has been staged in more than 100 countries. Literary critics and academics around the world have published hundreds of contrasting interpretations of what the characters and their predicament signify, labeling Godot as both optimistic and pessimistic, religious and atheist. This prompts Stewart's only concern about Mathias' production, 'If I have one fear,' he says, 'it's that people might be intimidated by the play's reputation, or feel that they won't understand it. But there is nothing difficult about this play, and it's our responsibility to make sure that every moment will have clarity for the audience.' 'Godot, he continues, is not only filled with physical and verbal comedy, but is also deeply touching.' He finds Vladimir's tender concern for Estragon's welfare particularly moving. 'Several weeks into rehearsal, there are sections I cannot read without getting upset.'

Waiting for Godot runs from Monday-Saturday, March 16-21.

A welcome to spring

PARK LIFE

AFTER a cold and snowy winter nothing lifts the spirits quite as much as spotting the first signs of spring.

In many places snowdrops and crocuses are flowering and the green shoots of daffodils are ready to burst into bright and beautiful yellow trumpets, heralding the demise of winter and welcoming the summer sun.

Daffodils can't fail to make you feel better.

Contrasting with the fresh green buds of trees and shrubs a cloud of golden heads punctuate the landscape with their vivid colour.

Thousands of daffodils bloom throughout Milton Keynes and even if you can't get out to visit a park hundreds can be seen from the roads as you drive along.

The Parks Trust takes care of, not only, the city's major parks, such as Campbell, Willen and Furzton Lake, but also the landscape either side of the main grid roads. Milton Keynes' Council take care of the roundabouts and the central reservations.

Narcissi (daffodils) are prolific in this country, there are about 50 species and many different types, the most common being the trumpet daffodil.

An average of 20,000 daffodils are planted each year by The Parks Trust throughout the parks. These help to renew old and tired daffodil bulbs and provide the opportunity to try different colours that flower at different times.

Great places to see daffodils and a great opportunity to spend time with your mum for Mothers' Day onMarch 22 include:

■ The Woodland Ridge and ponds in Campbell Park – take a walk into the heart of Campbell Park to discover a stunning display of daffodils and wildflowers through the Woodland Ridge this short stroll will take you to the Grand Union canal and some lovely displays near the ponds.

■ At Caldecotte Lake you can combine a Mother's Day visit to the lakeside pub and a stroll around the north lake to see the daffodils lining the lakeside.

■ At the Tree Cathedral, just off the V10, Brickhill Street, the daffodil planting represents the light from the stained glass windows of a cathedral. Last year an extra 45,000 bulbs were planted to renew the colourful splendor of this site and make it a stunning location to visit this spring.

MEAL APPEAL

Seven-course dinner for four to the highest bidder

BID for a luxury meal at one of the areas most prestigious restaurants.

To launch the spring menu for 2009, The Plough, Wavendon has launched an auction on eBay for their seven course tasting menu with matching 'flight of wines'.

The menu has been put together by head chef Grant Hawthorne

With no reserve price and the actual value of the meal for four at £500, the lucky winner could be able to enjoy a gourmet dinner for a fraction of the cost.

Half of the bid amount will be donated to The Orchard Project being run by Slow Food Bedford.

Owner Jon Todd said: 'We appreciate that the recession is going to be tough for many local people. Our guests appreciate great food and service and will be looking at value for money in the coming months. Hopefully this might save them a little too and inject a little fun in these times."

■ The eBay listing number is 260371215526. It goes live at 8am on Wednesday, March 11.

TELEVISION WEEK

BILLY Connolly continues his Journey to the Edge of the World, Thursday, ITV1, 9pm, as he heads through the White Pass toward Vancouver Island.

Flying south to Ice Lakes, Billy learns how to hunt for moose, before moving on to a First Nations settlement where he takes part in a spiritual ritual that tests endurance.

As the 10,000-mile trip concludes, he finds the time to go riding with cowboys and join a group of loggers to fell a tree, finishing his journey at Friendly Cove.

The big TV event of the week is on Friday in the shape of the seven hour comedython that is Comic Relief 2009, BBC1, 7pm.

The fun and games begin with David Tennant and Davina McCall kicking off the fund-raising extravaganza with a Harry Hill's TV Burp special, a performance by the Saturdays of their Comic Relief single Just Can't Get Enough and a Sarah Jane Adventure, guest starring Ronnie Corbett as an alien.

And that is just for starters as just about everyone in light entertainment and British comedy will feature during the night.

Other highlights to look out for include celebs such as Cheryl Cole and Chris Moyles returning from their trip to Mount Kilimanjaro and Ricky Gervais and Stephen Merchant in an operatic version of The Office.

There is new drama on BBC1, Sunday, 9pm with The No1 Ladies' Detective Agency based on Alexander McCall Smith's best-selling novels about Botswana's first female private detective.

Business is slow for Precious (Jill Scott), with only a missing dog and a disturbed dentist to keep her busy.

However, things soon turn interesting with the case of a missing husband.

His wife believes he has run off with another woman – but the church pastor tells an altogether more amazing story.

SIMON DARNELL

LOVE ETC

Pet Shop Boys

THERE'S an ancient Pet Shop Boys song called One Thing Leads To Another, and it's a grubby, dark little tune.

It tells the story of a bloke who loses his girlfriend, then his job, and then goes out drinking, where he meets up with someone who isn't quite what s/he appears to be and finally he crashes his car and buys the farm. That in itself is a more detailed storyline than you'll find in most songs, however, it gets better.

The entire story's actually played out in reverse, so what really happens is the bloke comes back to life, repairs his car, goes off for a drink with a man who turns out to be a woman, gets a great job and finally his girlfriend moves in with him.

Isn't it nice to have a song with a happy ending, or start or something?

Anyway, that was the sort of thing the Pet Shop Boys were quietly releasing under the radar while most people were busy turning Go West into a football chant.

These days, they're putting out far more straightforward fare, certainly on this evidence at least.

The message here is much simpler, and that is, you don't have to be ridiculously rich and famous in order to get the person of your dreams (but it certainly doesn't hurt your chances).

Where they used a huge choir on Go West, the chanting here is provided by what sounds like a couple of blokes on their way to a match – well, look at that, they've gone full circle.

The tune itself is a bit simple, but then I suppose this is a simple song – there's nothing grand about it and it doesn't proudly scream 'We're back!' like I'm With Stupid did for their previous album. Mind you, it's pleasant and likeable enough, and it certainly doesn't disgrace the band's repertoire by existing.

The most important thing is that it doesn't sound like a band simply going through the motions, if it did this song would've been as exciting as a Party Political Broadcast.

I'M NOT ALONE

Calvin Harris

IT'S always good to hear musicians pushing themselves to stay up to date, but you have to feel sorry for Calvin Harris.

His first few songs sounded like they'd come straight from a 1980s record box, so he's had to do a bit more catching up than most.

Well, this time round, he's made it as far as the late 1990s and in anyone's book, making up an entire decade in the space of a year has to be seen as staggeringly good progress.

Aside from the decidedly indie opening, this sounds just like one of those euphoric house tunes that were all over the Ministry of Sound-type compilations back in the days when people still bought cassettes and could choose which music shop they were going to buy them from.

This is as far removed from Dance Wiv Me as Westlife are from Ace Of Spades, that's how different it sounds.

And do you know what?

It's not bad.

In fact, it sounds so entrenched in the 90s it even has rubbish lyrics like all the best dance anthems.

Hats off for the attention to detail.

This is very strange you know, I'm actually finding myself in the unusual position of looking forward to hearing Calvin Harris's next single.

UP ALL NIGHT

Take That

THIS sounds like Simon and Garfunkel meets The Littlest Hobo meets Take That's very own Shine.

It's cheerful, presses all the right buttons and yet it's friendly without being interesting.

Ah well.

PACK OF LIES

Until Saturday

JENNY Seagrove, Stephanie Powers and Daniel Hill star in the first revival of this award winning production first seen in the West End in 1983.

Based on a true story, the arrival of a stranger shatters the lives of the jackson family as the truth about their neighbour is revealed.

Announcing he works for the government, the stranger coerces them into allowing their house to be used for surveillance. And in the nightmare months that follow, the Jacksons are forced to choose between loyalty to their friends and their country.

Every little helps

THE new Tesco Express store in Olney celebrated its launch with a donation to Olney Rugby Union Football Club.

President of the club, Mannnie Howkins, was the guest of honour when the new Tesco Express opened on Market Place.

Mr Howkins was invited to cut the ribbon to declare the new store officially open last Wednesday.

As part of the opening celebrations, store manager Jo Barker and her staff presented the club with a cheque for £500.

The store chose to donate to the club as part of Tesco's ongoing commitment to helping local communities.

President Mannny Howkins said: "We are delighted that the rugby club will benefit from the opening of the new store and we would like to thank Tesco for their support. The money is being used towards providing much needed extra playing space for the 300 young people we have playing rugby each weekend."

Tesco Express store manager Jo said: "We are delighted to be able to support the club. We are really glad that Mannnie came to launch the new store and join in the celebrations."

Help celebrate the achievements and success of local companies

SHOWCASE your business at the showcase awards night of the year.

The annual Milton Keynes and North Bucks Chamber of Commerce Business Excellence Awards take place on Thursday, October 1 at stadiummk, the home of MK Dons.

MK NEWS is the media sponsor of the event for the second year running.

The awards celebrate the successes and achievements of local businesses across a wide range of sectors and demonstrate the high standards and aspirations that the community demands of them.

Sponsorship packages are available now.

Businesses can select from the main event or specific individual category sponsorship packages to guarantee exposure across a wide range of mediums including local media, the Chamber website, Chamber Vision magazine and the monthly member email bulletins.

Your business or brand logo would be featured on all publicity material building up to the main awards ceremony and at the event itself you will have an impressive audio and visual presence.

Each year more than 100 businesses apply to compete with others to be seen as the very best.

Each sponsor rewards the year's winners with the Chamber commissioned, unique sculpture from a local artist that symbolises the specific spirit and strength of the business community.

The sponsorship packages also include a table of ten at the awards dinner worth over £700 for you to entertain potential clients, existing customers or members of staff.

Present your sponsored award on stage alongside the Master of Ceremonies, Declan Curry and have a photo opportunity with the winner and the guest speaker, Jo Salter, the only female fighter pilot in the UK.

Connexions:MK up to speed

EVERYONE met their match at a local event to help young people get jobs.

Connexions:MK, the young people's advice and support service, reports a 100 per cent success rate in matching young people with local employers and training providers at the innovative job and training matching service called 'speed matching'.

Free of charge to all young people and local companies taking part, it works in the same way as speed dating with a series of three-minute 'interviews' with young people who are currently looking for jobs or training.

Young people can learn about the opportunities available while employers and training providers can get to know a little about the jobseekers themselves before deciding whether to go on to formal interviews.

The event, which took place last month, was the third time that the project has been run by Connexions in Milton Keynes, after two previous successful events piloted on Valentine's Day in 2007 and 2008.

Peter Wong, Connexions:MK manager, said: "This year's event was a great success with every young person and every organisation taking part making at least one successful match, and in most cases, several matches. We're delighted to be able to help young people move on to the next stage of work or training as they now go forward for formal interviews."

The young people's advice and guidance service is part of Milton Keynes Council and works with partners and organisations across the region to make a dramatic difference to the lives of 13-19 year olds, offering advice and support with a variety of issues including careers, learning, relationships, health and money. A key aim for Connexions is to reduce the number of young people aged 16-18 years not in education, employment or training (NEET).

> This year's event was a great success with every young person and every organisation taking part making at least one successful match

Statutory Notice
LEON SCHOOL AND SPORTS COLLEGE
INTENTION TO ACQUIRE A TRUST

Notice is given in accordance with Section 19(3) of the Education and Inspections Act 2006 that the Governing Body of Leon School and Sports College (currently a Community School, but due to become a Foundation School on 1st June 2009) intends to make a prescribed alteration to Leon School and Sports College, Fern Grove, Bletchley, Milton Keynes MK2 3HQ. The proposed alteration is to become a Trust School by acquiring membership of a Trust established otherwise than under the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 from 1st September 2009.

The Governing Body of Leon School and Sports College believes that the acquisition of a Trust will raise expectations and standards for the children in our community. The expertise of the Trust partners will help us raise standards by:

1. Raise standards → agenda of English/Maths (Literacy + Numeracy) + new 14-19 curriculum e.g. Diplomas
2. Help to develop a 13-19 learning continuum which will:
   a. enhance progression pathways
   b. increase skills for employability → raise levels of employment or access to training/further education opportunities in a very deprived community
3. Afford unique opportunities for staff CPD – exchanges, shadowing, pairing, peer reviewing – to enhance leadership, management, teaching and learning.
4. Help to address community cohesion issues more effectively.
5. Strengthen governance.

The proposed name of the Trust is Leon Learning Trust. The membership will be Leon School and Sports College, St Paul's Catholic School, MK College, Fronter UK, John Lewis, and Technogym. The Leon Learning Trust will be a co-operative model and a mechanism will be provided for all members of the community, staff, parents and students to have a voice in the development and management of the school through membership of a Council, which will appoint Trustees.

Copies of the full statutory proposal can be obtained from the school office, Leon School and Sports College, Fern Grove, Bletchley, Milton Keynes MK2 3HQ or via the school website www.leon-school.org

Within four weeks from the date of publication of this proposal, any person may object to or make comments on the proposal by sending them to the Chair of Governors, Leon School and Sports College, Fern Grove, Bletchley, Milton Keynes MK2 3HQ or via email to the school at gjerome@leon.milton-keynes.sch.uk

Signed: Mr J Bailey, Vice Chair of Governors
Publication Date: 11th March 2009

DONS defender Jude Stirling summed it up by saying: "A game of chances wasted."

On paper it was a missed opportunity to breath fire down the neck of rivals Peterborough, in reality MK Dons were fortunate to get a point.

Swindon Town are desperately scrapping to keep their heads above water and avoid relegation but in their struggling season they have managed to claim four points from the Dons.

It could have been six had Willy Gueret, posts and the bar not been in Swindon's way.

The worst miss of the day fell to Simon Cox who was one on one with Gueret when the scores were 1-1.

The Swindon striker was released into the box by Hal Robson-Kanu, a thorn in the Dons' side throughout, and when it would have been easier to score than miss he struck the woodwork from ten-yards-out.

But Stirling, who was beaten at the far post by Billy Paynter for the opening goal, believes the Dons deserved their slice of luck.

He said: "When you work hard you're going to force people into mistakes and I think their missed chances were mistakes, the one that hit the bar especially.

"It's not complete luck I think we've forced errors, we've harried we've hustled. I think the boys deserve a point today."

Stirling had one of his busier days as he created the leveller with his incredible long throw.

He launched the ball to the opposite side of the box, Jemal Johnson fired it back across for Aaron Wilbraham to awkwardly knock beyond goalie Peter Brezovan.

Then the miscued shots, blocked efforts and wayward strikes came into effect.

Former Robins defender Sean O'Hanlon headed a goal-bound chance from Robson-Kanu away, Paynter smashed the upright and Cox failed with tow follow-up attempts.

Dons also came close when Luke Chadwick hit the left post and boss Roberto Di Matteo was furious when Paynter's deliberate handball was not spotted by the official.

He said: "We're just asking for what we deserve. If one of their players saves it with his hand... we're just not getting the decisions for us.

We just have to fight and keep playing our football, try our best and then it will come."

Late on skipper Dean Lewington was dismissed for his second booking and with ten men Dons almost stole a winner.

Once again Stirling's throw-ins caused Swindon all kinds of troubles and Wilbraham was on the end only for Brezovan to save at his near post.

Ex-Dons manager Danny Wilson thought his Swindon side were worthy of victory and Di Matteo was relieved to take a point.

Di Matteo added: "Swindon played very well, they put us under pressure and we kind of expected that to be honest.

"It's just unfortunate that we conceded a goal after 20 minutes but the reaction was very good from the team. We got back into the game after we equalised, second half towards the end we could have maybe had a bit more luck and joy."

The club, currently stranded at the bottom of League One, are managed by former Dons boss Martin Allen and the financial worries are resulting in Robins' players being linked to moves elsewhere.

PREVIEWS

OLDHAM ATHLETIC

League One
Saturday, March 14
stadiummk
KO 3pm

THE Latics will want to dispel reports of in-house fighting with a winning team performance at the Dons.

Oldham are right on the tails of the Dons also hunting automatic promotion.

They have the experienced heads in their side who have played at the top level including goalkeeper Mark Crossley, and strikers Lee Hughes and Dean Windass.

Windass, on loan from Hull, had said he would not play for Oldham again after bit-part appearances but he featured as a substitute for them at the weekend.

Oldham will be without defender Reuben Hazell who is serving a two match suspension for 10 cautions.

MILLWALL

League One
Tuesday, March 17
stadiummk
KO 7.45pm

HOT on the heels of Leicester and Oldham the Dons host another promotion chasing side at stadiummk.

And Millwall are looking for revenge for the 4-0 thrashing at the Lions' New Den in October.

Millwall have one of the better away records in the league having won nine times on the road.

Former Don Izale McLeod will not feature in the game following the cancellation of his loan contract with Millwall.

Dons goalie Willy Gueret will be looking to keep a clean sheet against the club he spent four years at.

Millwall will be without their skipper Paul Robinson who is sidelined with a broken metatarsal.

PETERBOROUGH Phantoms have opened up a five point gap at the top of the English Premier League.

MK Lightning fell further behind their title rivals following their first defeat in eight games.

Slough Jets ended Lightning's impressive run and the Phantoms could go seven points clear if they win their game in hand.

On Saturday Lightning recorded their eighth successive victory in a difficult game at Swindon.

It was ill-disciplined from the off-set, Swindon racked up a massive 15 penalties while Lightning were penalised on eleven occasions.

Lightning started the scoring with four minutes remaining in the first period as Gary Clarke passed through to Adam Carr for a power play opener.

The score would remain the same until a fast-paced final period where Swindon gained the lead with two goals in three minutes from Jozef Kohut. ut Lightning recovered once again through Carr on 50.29minutes before Joakim Wiklander grabbed the winner, with help from Clarke and Michael Wales, on 56.18.

The next day Slough burst into action after just 1.55 with Scott Spearing firing the visitors into the lead at Planet Ice.

Lightning did not find a reply until the half-hour mark had past when Chris McEwen hit the back of the net at 32.59.

The home side then went ahead 53 seconds later from Grant McPerson but Slough ended the period on top when Spearing and Ciccarello added to the score line.

Slough extended their lead to two goals with an early strike from Carl Thompson but Lightning were still in the game thanks to Ales Parez's goal on 48.40.Lightning went all out for the win pulling the net minder yet with four seconds remaining Steve Moria struck to seal a Slough win.

Schoolboy errors prove costly for Lions

BASKETBALL

WORCESTER WOLVES 90

MK LIONS 83

Eddie 20, New 16, Youngblood 13

DEFEAT to Worcester Wolves has left MK Lions clinging on to their play-off spot.

Lions' safety net in eighth place is just two points and a game in hand over Sheffield Sharks following their 12th loss of the season.

Coach and owner Vince Macaulay lambasted his side for making simple errors which ultimately cost them.

He said: "We just struggled to put the ball in the basket, you won't win many games if you miss 53 shots. We were not good tonight and our execution was schoolboy."

Wolves shared the points around the team with six players reaching double figures.

The home side were quick to find their stride as Vidantis Uzkuraitis nailed a three-pointer to cap a 21-10 start to the match in the opening six minutes.

Lions responded well though and put together a 15-3 finish to the first quarter which gave them a slender 24-25 lead.

Uzkuraitis continued his rich vein of form in the second stanza with another triple before Douglas Tshomba added a two three-pointers to put Wolves back on top 33-31 early on.

Then a 9-3 run gave the Wolves their biggest lead of the half at 42-36 but Lions' Tommie Eddie brought it back to 44-41 at the interval.

The half-time team talk must have included a few harsh words as Lions roared back in the third quarter.

Macaulay's men hit back with a 19-9 run in eight minutes which reversed the fortunes and gave Lions their largest lead in the match at 53-60.

However, their chances of leaving Wolves with a victory were ended when a fourth foul on Eddie meant he sat out until there were only six minutes remaining in the game.

Lions' advantage was cut to 59-62 heading into the final quarter when Skouson Harker netted six points.

Wolves then took control with a stunning 19-4 start which included threes from Uzkuraitis and Tshomba to lead by 12.

The closest Lions could get from there was 87-81 despite ten points in the quarter from Mike New.

■ ON Friday Lions host the Scottish Rocks at Bletchley Leisure Centre. Tip-off is 7.30pm.

Personal bests not good enough for MK athletes

ATHLETICS

GREG Rutherford set a personal best at the European Athletics Indoor Championship yet he and sprinter Craig Pickering left Turin empty handed.

Long jumper Rutherford competed in one of the most exciting finals in which the top six set personal bests. It was Rutherford who landed the sixth spot with a 8.0 metre leap despite it being the biggest of his season it was well off the winning margin.

In the final event of the Championship Germany's Sebastian Bayer produced a staggering European record of 8.71m - the second largest jump in history behind Carl Lewis' world record of 8.79m.

Although Rutherford, who is due to have his tonsils removed this week, did not come away with a medal he will have impressed new UK Athletics boss Charles van Commenee with two personal PB's, the first 7.99m in the qualifier.

Elsewhere, Pickering had a disappointing weekend and never looked like challenging for a medal.

The 22-year-old has spent the past year trailing drugs-cheat Dwain Chambers and the story continued in Italy.

Chambers, who served a two-year ban in 2003 for failing a drug test, set a European record of 6.42seconds in the 60meters semi-final and then eased to victory in the final with 6.46s.

Pickering finished fifth in the final behind Chambers, Fabio Cerutti, Emanuele Di Gregorio and Simeon Williamson with a time of 6.61s.

The final was Pickering's fastest time of the Championships, he had previously run 6.63 in the first round of heats and was tied in the semi-final with Di Gregorio and Ryan Moseley as they all ran 6.63s.

Olney grind out win over fifth placed Wallingford

RUGBY

SOUTH WEST EAST TWO DIVISION

OLNEY recorded a 17-12 away win against Wallingford with fly half Dave Smith kicking 12 of Olney's points.

Smith used his boot early in the game to knock over two penalties for a six point lead.

Wallingford provided plenty of scares for Olney including a burst across the try line but the ball was held up.

Soon the home side were in the points through a penalty kick, yet Smith's response was another three points for Olney.

To make matters worse for Wallingford they were reduced to 14 men when their second row was sent to the sin-bin before the break.

Wallingford were much improved in the second half and two more penalties levelled the scores.

Just as Wallingford were back into proceedings Rhys Peakman broke through seven players to score a terrific individual try - the first of the game.

A Wallingford drop goal to the score to within two points but Smith sealed the win with yet another penalty.

BLETCHLEY'S season has gone from bad to worse.

The club were unable to field a team due to a number of injuries in their front row at the weekend and they were forced to concede the game against league leaders Maidenhead.

Bletchley were docked two points and remain second from bottom on six points.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES NORTH

MILTON Keynes could move to the top of the table if they win their game in hand.

After a week off to play in the Lewis Shield MK returned to the league with a 19-11 win over Marlow.

Marlow, in second place, are level on points with table toppers Buckingham but MK are just a point behind and have an extra game to play.

Fly half Andy White kicked 14 points and Andy Williamson crossed the line for the victory.

Dons thank linesman for point

MK DONS 1
Baldock 59

HUDDERSFIELD TOWN 1
Butler 80

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

A CONTROVERSIAL linesman decision may have rescued a point for MK Dons last night.

Huddersfield Town thought they had stunned the home side with a late winner in injury time, only for the linesman to rule that the ball had not crossed the line.

The Terriers were celebrating when they believed Shaun Cummings, whose error led to the break, had failed to clear Michael Flynn's powerful drive and the body language of the Dons suggested a similar story.

But the official said no to Huddersfield's appeals and the Dons escaped with a point in the 1-1 draw.

Sam Baldock had put the Dons ahead with his first goal in almost three months but Andy Butler levelled on the 80th minute.

Jude Stirling was picked as the man to stand-in at left-back for suspended skipper Dean Lewington and he would have been less than happy to learn he would be marking the lively Anthony Pilkington.

The breaks were fast and the Dons had an early shout for a penalty when Robbie Williams appeared to block Jason Puncheon's cross with his hand.

As play continued Luke Chadwick released a promising right-footed shot from the edge of the box which Alex Smithies stopped well.

Huddersfield's Michael Collins earned himself a talking to by referee Steven Cook after he continued to challenge for the ball while Willy Gueret slid on the floor to collect.

Aaron Wilbraham cuts between Tom Clarke and Andy Holdsworth

It was a brave stop by the Dons goalie and a dangerous move by Collins.

Jason Puncheon deserved a goal on the 16th minute when he tore through midfield as Huddersfield players chased his tail.

Puncheon, returning from suspension, finished his run by smashing a thunderbolt which looked to be heading for the top corner, only to rattle the frame.

After a lively beginning the pace dropped slightly with play pinging around the middle of the park to little effect for either side.

Minutes before the break the Terriers had two great opportunities to break the deadlock.

Dons had Sean O'Hanlon to thank for keeping it level when he reached Pilkington's free-kick ahead of Chris Lucketti.

Gary Roberts' resulting corner took an ugly deflection off Alan Navarro but luckily for him Gueret's safe hands were ready to prevent an own goal. Dons had another close shave five minutes into the restart when Roberts' diagonal cross picked up a little too much speed leaving the on-running Booth with an impossible task of making contact at the right post.

Puncheon once again demonstrated his remarkable ability on the ball with another dazzling run.

The midfielder was brought into play on the right after a neat one-two between Navarro and Wilbraham, he cut inside Williams then drilled inches wide of the post.

Terriers' defensive unit had been solid, until a brilliantly timed run by Chadwick had them bewildered and ultimately a goal down on 59 minutes.

Chadwick glided past Andy Butler and Andy Holdsworth, beating the offside trap, to reach Stirling's through ball, coaxed Smithies out of goal then unselfishly squared for Baldock.

The striker calmly slotted home for his eleventh goal of the season.

Huddersfield boss Lee Clark became more and more animated on the sidelines as the clocked ticked.

The former Newcastle player was in the air heading an imaginary ball when his forward Booth nodded off target from close range.

However, Clark was soon jumping for joy when they grabbed an equaliser ten minutes from time.

The Dons failed to deal with a corner from the right, as it bounced across the box Butler made up for his earlier defensive error turning in what would be a point winning goal.

Dons substitute Ali Gerba should have netted three minutes later only to shoot straight into Smithies' body.

And Wilbraham headed over with a minute left.

On the 93rd minute Flynn thought he had grabbed a winner, but Cummings' recovery to knock the ball onto the post was enough for the home side.

The Dons haven't lost in seven but they haven't won in four either.
